Jan Watson, M.A.T.

Training, Replication and Technical Assistance Manager

With more than a decade of experience with Parents as Teachers, Jan Watson is well qualified in her current role of providing technical assistance to programs as they implement the Parents as Teachers model.

In her prior role, Watson coordinated work of the Parents as Teachers programs in 61 Bureau of Indian Education Schools. She has written training manuals and curricula for Parents as Teachers.

Previously, Watson held positions at several early childhood centers, providing assistance with screening and program design and development. As an adjunct faculty member at Webster University, Watson taught education classes and supervised practicums and early childhood student teachers.

Watson has presented at many conferences, including the Conference on the Young Years, Crucial Early Years Regional Conference, Gallop New Mexico Early Childhood Conference, Parents as Teachers Conference, Family and Child Education (FACE) National Conference, and Fathers and Families Coalition of America. Watson serves on the Circle of Parents National Advisory Board and the Show Me Healthy Family Coalition.

Watson has a bachelor's degree in education from the University of Connecticut and a master's degree from Webster University.

Our Vision: All children will learn, grow and develop to realize their full potential.
